Cole Blasier Is Appointed Chief of The Library of Congress Hispanic Division

Cole Blasier, professor of political science and research professor in Latin American studies at the University of Pittsburgh, has been named the chief of the Hispanic Division of the Library of Congress, effective August 1. The Hispanic Division is responsible for the development of the collections and reference service on the study of the Iberian peninsula and countries in the Western Hemisphere south of the United States.

Cole Blasier (Photo: U. of Pittsburgh)

Dr. Blasier founded the Center for Latin American Studies at the University of Pittsburgh and served as its director from 1964 to 1974. From 1960 to 1964 he was with Colgate University, initially as director of public information and then as executive assistant to the president and secretary of the university. During the 1950s Dr. Blasier served as a career foreign service officer in Belgrade, Bonn, Washington, and Moscow.

Dr. Blasier's reputation as a specialist on U.S. and Soviet policy towards Latin America was established at the Center for Latin American Studies. His best known books are The Hovering Giant: U.S. Responses to Revolutionary Change in Latin America and The Giant's Rival: The U.S.S.R. and Latin America, both of which were recently updated in revised editions. Dr. Blasier also originated the U.S./U.S.S.R. exchange in Latin American studies, which brings U.S. and Soviet specialists on the region together almost every year.

Dr. Blasier recently completed a term as president of the Latin American Studies Association, which he helped to found in 1966. He has been for 15 years a member of the Advisory Board of the annual Handbook of Latin American Studies, which is edited by the Library of Congress, and has been its chair for eight years. He originated and edits the University of Pittsburgh Press series on Latin America—a list with some 50 titles—and helped found and develop the collections at the Hillman Library in Pittsburgh, now one of the best in the country on contemporary Latin America.

Following his graduation from the University of Illinois in 1947, Dr. Blasier began to specialize in Latin American studies at George Washington University and the universities of Mexico and Chile. While in Chile he developed an interest in Soviet studies and subsequently earned his Ph.D. in international relations and Soviet studies at the Russian (now Harriman) Institute of Columbia University. The subject of his dissertation was Soviet relations with Cuba and Chile. In 1956–57, he studied at the advanced Russian language and area studies program in Oberammergau, Federal Republic of Germany. In the early 1960s he served as visiting professor in Cali, Colombia, under a grant from the Rockefeller Foundation.

His military service in World War II included nearly two years in New Guinea and the Philippines.

The Library of Congress Information Bulletin is issued weekly by the Information Office of the Library of Congress and distributed free of charge to publicly supported libraries and research institutions, academic libraries, learned societies, and allied organizations in the United States.

Comparable institutions and organizations in other countries may arrange to receive the Bulletin on an exchange basis by applying in writing to the Library's Exchange and Gift Division. New Centers for the Book In Arizona, Colorado

The executive council of the Center for the Book has approved proposals from Arizona and Colorado for statewide centers for the book which will be affiliated with the Center for the Book in the Library of Congress.

"Each state center shares our goal of stimulating public awareness and appreciation of books, reading, and libraries," commented John Y. Cole, director of the Library's Center for the Book. "We look forward to working with Arizona and Colorado, states which have strong and diverse book traditions," he concluded.

The Arizona Center for the Book will be located at the Arizona Department of Library, Archives, and Public Records in Phoenix. The proposal was developed after several planning meetings involving book, library, and educational interests from throughout the state. The coordinator is Ray Tevis, director of the Research Division. The Colorado Center for the Book will be located at the State Library in Denver. Plans are under way for an opening event this fall. The coordinator is consultant Judith R. Casey, who also served as the first coordinator of the Wisconsin Center for the Book.

There are now 17 statewide or regional centers for the book. Each develops and funds its own operations and projects. In addition to stimulating public interest in books, reading, and all aspects of a state's "book culture," state centers use national promotion themes initiated by the Library of Congress center.

When its application is approved, a state center is granted affiliate status for a period of three years. The 17 state centers are Arizona (1988), California (1987), Colorado (1988), Connecticut (1987), Florida (1984, renewed 1987), Illinois (1985), Indiana (1987), Iowa (1987), Kansas (1987), Michigan (1986), Ohio (1987), Oklahoma (1986), Oregon (1986), Upper Midwest (Minnesota, North Dakota, South Dakota; 1986), Texas (1987), Virginia (1987), and Wisconsin (1986).

The Presidential Election Process: A Selected List of References

Compiled by Louis Drummond
Revised by Mary Kramer and Jon Simon
General Reading Rooms Division

Scene of an 1884 presidential nominating convention. (Frank Leslie's Illustrated Newspaper, June 14, 1884).

As the November 1988 presidential election draws near, there is growing public awareness of the many complex questions involved in selecting a national leader. Questions are asked about primaries and conventions, advertising and ethics, and issues and debates. This bibliography, a revision of one published in the Library of Congress Information Bulletin in 1984, is designed to assist librarians and researchers in identifying material relevant to the process by which Americans choose the person who will hold the highest office in the land.

Recent books were selected that pertain to presidential elections in general rather than to a specific candidate or campaign. Many of the sources listed are bibliographies, from which additional information may be located. Current journal articles may be identified using such published and online indexes as Public Affairs Information Service Bulletin, Social Sciences Citation Index, ABC Pol Sci, and America, History and Life. For the convenience of readers using the Library of Congress, location information is provided for books that are part of the reference collections of the Main Reading Room (MRR), Social Science Reading Room (SSRR), Newspaper and Current Periodical Reading Room (N&CPR), Microform Reading Room (MicRR), or Motion Picture, Broadcasting and Recorded Sound Division (M/B/RS).

Library Publishes Classification Broadside

An "LC Classification Broadside," consisting of two posters which list the classes and subclasses in the Library of Congress Classification system, is now available from the Cataloging Distribution Service (CDS).

Prepared by Subject Cataloging Division, the classification broadside reflects the expansion the Library of Congress (LC) classification system has undergone over the past two decades. The broadside was developed in response to requests made to CDS by librarians and library users throughout the United States.

Printed in black ink on two flexible, white, 11 × 17-inch posters, the broadside is ideal for placing near card catalogs or bookshelves to inform library users of the meaning of the letters in a call number and to aid their browsing in library bookstacks.

The "LC Classification Broadside" is available for $15 from the Customer Services Section, Cataloging Distribution Service, Library of Congress, Washington, DC 20541. For further information, call (202) 287–6100.

AMERICAN TREASURY
PRODUCED BY CBS NEWS
IN ASSOCIATION WITH THE LIBRARY OF CONGRESS

This week's question, drawn from the CBS News "American Treasury" series, broadcast each weekday at 3:57 p.m. (EST) on the CBS Television Network, is:

What presidential candidate won the most votes but did not become President?

The answer to last week's question is:

In October 1788, the Continental Congress met for a final time, but the new Constitutional government did not begin to function until the following March. For six months, the United States had no effective government at all.
